"Technologies and scientific discourses can be partially understood as formalizations i.e. frozen moments, of the fluid social interactions constituting them, but they should also be viewed as instruments for enforcing meanings"

(Haraway 1991:164)

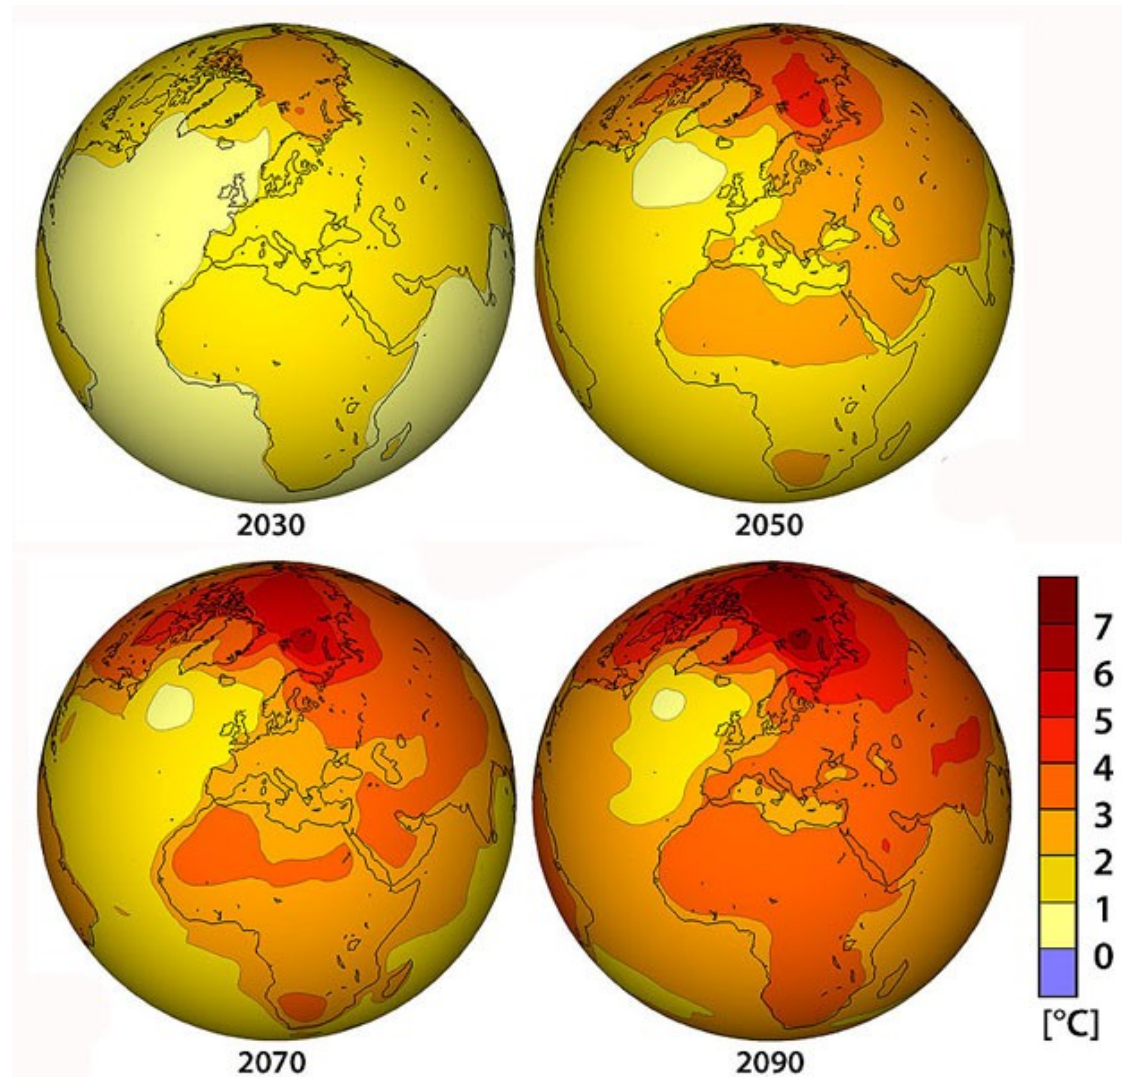

"...the objects of scientific research are at once discursively constructed, socially produced and materially real..."

(Hayles 2005:209)

"The models analyse the world, the world responds to the models."

(Kitchin and Dodge 2011:30)

"It has occurred to me that if people really knew how software got written I'm not sure they'd give their money to a bank, or get on an airplane again."

(Ullman 2013:2)

#include "El.h"

El::El(float xin, float yin, float rin, int idin, El *Ein[numE], int win, int hin)

    y = newy = yin;

    r = rin;
    eWidth = r*2;

    id = idin;
    moveangle = (TWO_PI/(float)numE * id) - PI;
    Others = Ein;

    width = win;
    height = hin;

    inc = 1.0;
    angle = 0.0;
    moveangle = 0.0;
    dotSize = 4.0;

    float El::getCenterX()
    {
        return x;
    }

    float El::getCenterY()
    {
        return y;
    }

    void El::move(float a, float r)
        newx = newx + cos(a)*r;
        newy = newy + sin(a)*r;

Stabilisations of code....

Code becomes algorithm, algorithm becomes software, and, through software, the virtual becomes material.

"Code/ Space occurs when software and the spatiality of everyday life becomes mutually constituted, that is, produced by one another."

(Kitchin and Dodge 2011:16)

Virtual Interfaces

- Post Humanist futures
- Digital Materiality

"...my dream is a version of the post human that embraces the possibilities of information technologies without being seduced by fantasies of unlimited power and disembodied immortality, that recognizes and celebrates finitude as a condition of human being, and that understands human life is embedded in a material world of great complexity, one on which we depend for our continued survival."

(Hayles 1999:5)

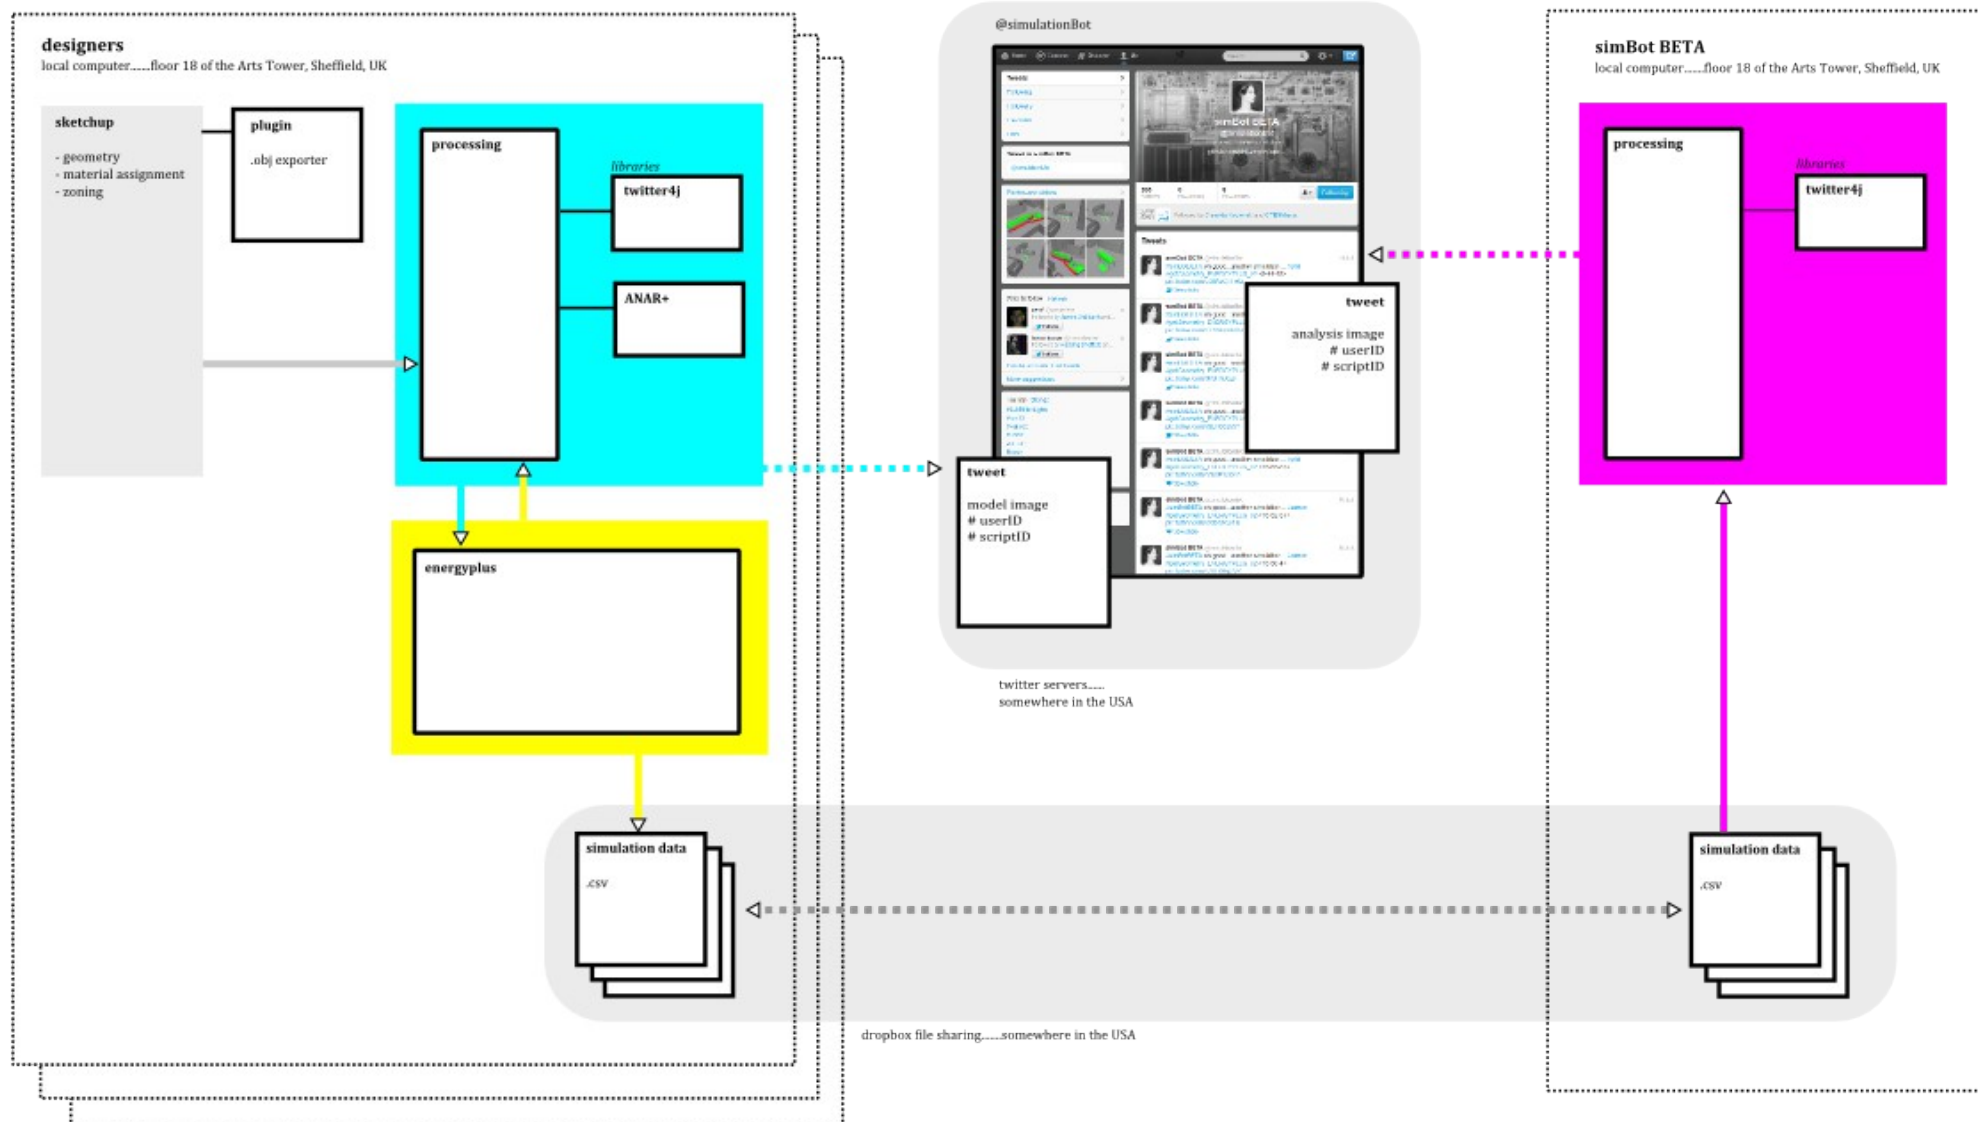

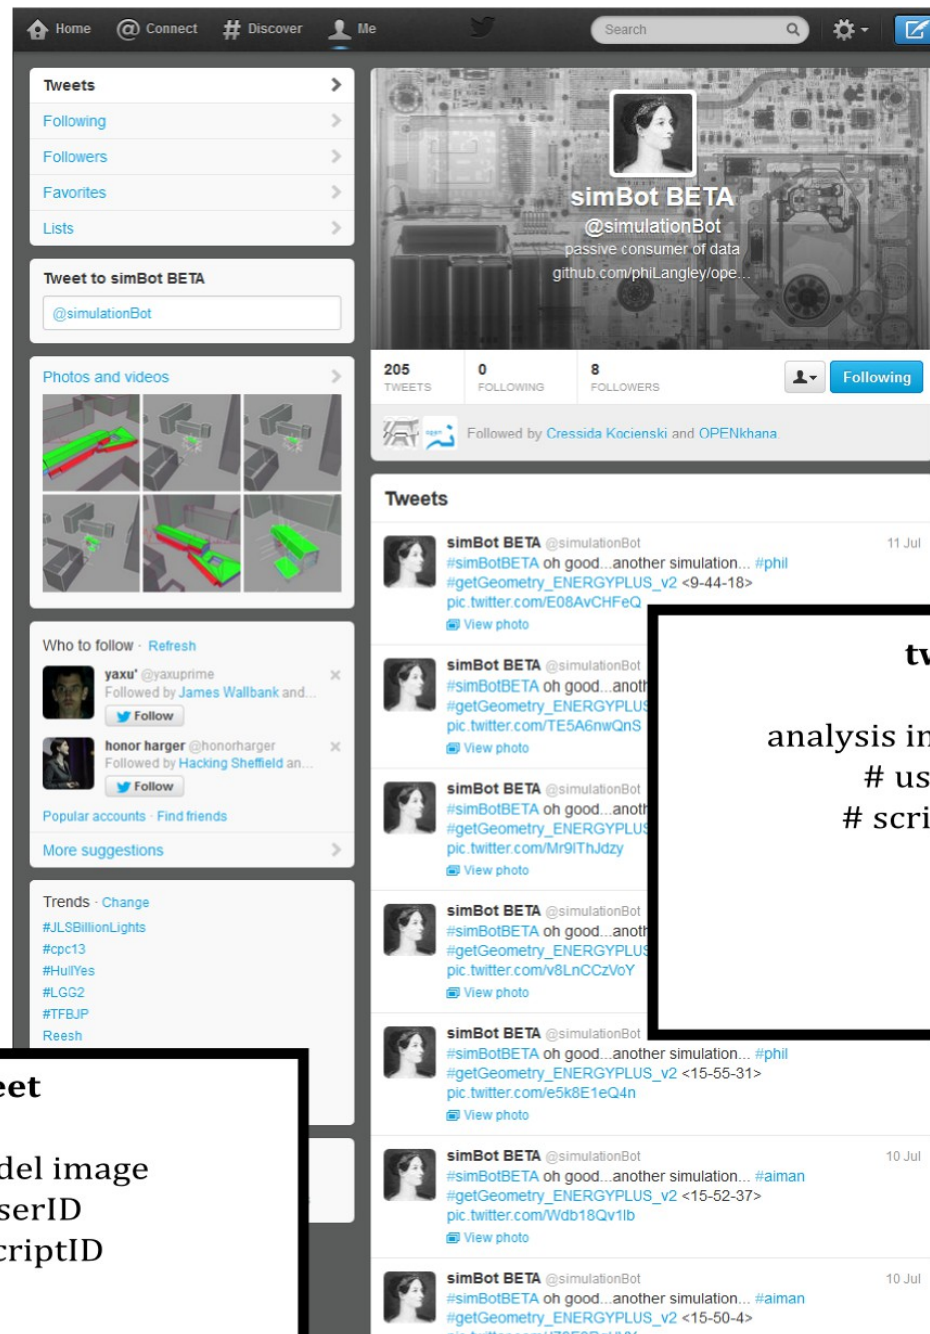

(Gabrys 2010:51)
